Interesting Von Peter Uys This beautifully illustrated book investigates prophecy down the ages. Chapter One deals with, among others, the roots of prophecy in an informative introduction, the Old Testament prophets, prophecies on the Antichrist and the coming of the Messiah, the Apocalypse of St. John, the Oracle of Delphi, the Sibyls, the predictions of St Malachi about the popes, Joan of Arc and her voices, Joseph Smith, Native American prophets and the secrets of Fatima. Chapter Two deals with dreams and premonitions in Mesopotamia, Egypt and amongst the Aztecs, plus famous dreams and visions including that of the sinking of the Titanic. Systems of divination and how they work are next discussed, with chapters on the ancient roots of astrology, the Druids, Tarot, African and Mesoamerican systems, scrying and the I Ching. Seers and clairvoyants like the Templars, Merlin, Nostradamus and Edgar Cayce are covered, whilst the final chapter looks at modern trends like the rise of Futurology and at specific figures who were ahead of their time in their vision of the future, like Leonardo da Vinci, Jules Verne and H G Wells. The beautiful illustrations include reproductions of paintings and gripping photographs, and the book concludes with a bibliography and index.
